Gunther International to Exhibit “Invisible Mail Inserter” at MAILCOM

NORWICH, CONNECTICUT – April 19, 2007– Gunther International Inc. (OTC Pink Sheets: SORT), a leading provider of technology and production mail equipment to the mailing industries, will once again exhibit the world’s first “Invisible Mail Inserter” at MAILCOM ’07, May 8-12 in Atlantic City, NJ, (Booth # 603). Gunther debuted the “Invisible Mail Inserter” at the National Postal Forum in Washington, DC, March 25-28, 2007, and surprised many attendees by exhibiting not a full-scale mailing system, but rather, a revolutionary part of Gunther’s Mail Inserter technology that makes the system so unique – the ability to access system data from virtually anywhere.

Via a simple remote connection, once again at MAILCOM, Gunther will demonstrate one of its latest Mail Inserters and the new Champion Operating System, which will be running remotely from Gunther’s headquarters in Norwich, CT. Visitors to the booth will be able to operate the machine, monitor progress of the job as well as operator performance, generate detailed reports, diagnose errors and perform problem resolutions, while optimizing the system for maximum efficiencies.

“We work with some of the industry’s heaviest volume mailers,” commented Dan Flack, VP of Sales and Marketing for Gunther. “While we believe Gunther offers the best value in mailing systems, we believe what truly sets us apart – and what interests our customers and potential customers – is the ability manage and access information about their mailing, generate reports ‘on-the-fly,’ and improve throughput and capacity – no matter where they happen to be at any given time. We're achieving incredible advances in these areas through Champion.”
